Once upon a time, there were three panda bears. Randy, Candy, and, Mandy that all lived together in a house built into the side of a cave.

As you can see it is blue and looks far from being new. Candy is the mama bear that has long black hair. Randy is a father bear that has a job teaching little bears how to care and share.

Mandy is their little girl, she is looking forward to starting school, she thinks that it's going to be so cool. Learning all the roles, meeting all the other young souls. Mandy, she is growing up so fast. She is hoping her friendships that she makes will last, with good grades so she will pass.

Mandy is a little girl with some sass, she likes to run carefree at recess though all the pretty green grass. Her favorite thing about school so far is art class. She drew a boat with a big mast, with her fishing with her dad both with the lines

cast.

See the little boat on the big wave.

Now it's time to go home to momma bear in the cave.

daddy side, and he holds her hand with great pride. Passing a ferries wheel hoping to take a ride, they now at the top sitting side by side.

Mandy is a spirited girl that like to do things that her mom and dad think are unsafe. Mandy is Saying- "Mom and dad, I am a big girl; I need a little space." Mandy likes to run and be free, to see what she can see. She likes to play outside with her younger friends named Tammy and Brandy Lee. Chasing butterflies or even a bumble bee.

Candy and Randy are sitting in the living room viewing the TV. Sometimes looking out the window, and waving at Mandy being carefree.

Now it's getting dark, seeing the fireworks

spark. Mandy is still at the park, with her friends Holly and Mark.

“Mom and dad, come and see...! Sit over here
with me!”

Mandy is playing hide-and-seek, trying not to peek. Saying- "Come and find me!" You can hear her counting one to the fifth teen.

Looking around there is no one to be seen. She is looking for her friend named Emily, Amy and Sandy. Saying- "Come out- Come out- wherever you are, I can be going too far."

Mandy is looking up at all the stars, seeing the lights of the passing cars. Trying to pick out some of the plants- like Mars. She is sitting on the grass, seeing the moon with the clouds that pass, the moon is vast. You can hear Mandy's mom calling. Saying- "Come home fast."

You can see Mandy go on her way, running past walks through the door of her home, taking her pink hair ribbon out, and throwing it onto the floor in a growing. Candy is saying- "It's time for you to be in your room, the next day of school will be starting really soon."

Randy is going to be reading Mandy her a bedtime story, about a girl named Annie in another short story. Her day reading this story, puts Mandy in her glory. It reminds her of spending time with her older friend named Lorie.

At this moment this story has come to its end.

Nonetheless, you know you have some new friends. It's time to say goodbye to Randy, Candy, and Mandy, along with her friends and someday soon meet again.
